

Picnic exchange with the DZ's.

Social life is one of the intergral parts of a college man's life. We feel that a well-rounded social life, one which does not interfere with studies, is an important part of our life. This was born out, in one aspect, by an extensive survey conducted by the ISC Student Body President and the Director of Student Affairs which showed that students who date make consistently better grades than those who don't.

Time and moneywise, we feel that one big party a quarter is all we can afford. Fall quarter we introduced a new type of party to campus. The title was, "Delta She Delta" and it was a huge success. In included a mock pledging, initiation and dance. Then at 12:30 the men left the house to the women. All the dates, Mrs. Peden and the wives of two married Delts occupied the house for the night. Sunday there was church and a dinner. At 2:00 the girls moved out and once again it was a male Delt Shelter.

Winter quarter we held the Four Poster party, a costume affair with pajamas as the attire. However, the highlight of winter quarter was the annual Orchid Formal held this year at the Hotel Savory in Des Moines. This year's Delta Queen was Doug Stock's pinmate Gayle Lyman of Pi Beta Phi.

Spring and "Lucky's." These two words are synonymous on the Iowa State campus. "Lucky's" is the annual Delt French party. A French quartet, complete with waiter and six foot loaves of bread, made the rounds of the sororities to publicise the party. The entire house was transformed into cafes, bars and street scenes. A lively combo played long and strong and once again "Lucky's" was a success. The house was filled with Delts, dates and welcome party hoppers.

We, as other houses, hold exchanges throughout the quarter. These consist of girls from one of the sororities coming over for supper or an hour of dancing, bridge playing or other entertainment. During the spring or fall it may take the form of a picnic supper at one of the parks or at other times we may visit their house for the exchange. These functions are very good to give the men a chance to make new friends and acquaintances.
